Coffee Without Sugar

Episode 17 | Vocabulary, grammar and practice guide

Vocabulary

coffee - a hot drink.

milk - a white drink from cows.

sugar - a sweet ingredient for food or drink.

black coffee - coffee with no milk.

always - every time, or almost every time.

offer - ask politely if someone wants something.

Useful sentences for real life

Would you like a coffee? Change the drink: Would you like some water?

No, thank you. Use this when you do not want something.

Here you are. Say this when you give someone a book, a cup or a key.

Pay Attention

We say with milk and with sugar. We usually say no sugar, not no sugars, because sugar is not counted one by one.

Practice - complete or choose

1. Complete: Would you ___ a coffee?

2. Choose: Would you like is polite / impolite.

3. Complete: With ___.

4. Complete: No ___, please.

5. Choose: Black coffee has milk / no milk.

6. Complete: I ___ drink it like this.

7. Complete: Here you ___.

8. Complete: No, ___.

9. Choose: Sugar is usually counted one by one / not counted one by one.

10. Put in order: like / would / coffee / you / a ?

11. Complete: Would you like some ___?

12. Choose: Here you are is used when you give / refuse something.

Answers

1. like. 2. polite. 3. milk. 4. sugar. 5. no milk. 6. always. 7. are. 8. thank you. 9. not counted one by one. 10. Would you like a coffee? 11. water. 12. give.

Listen once more with the transcript and notice how Leo asks, Tom answers, and both speak politely.